CHICAGO REVEALS POLITICAL SCENES OF '98 TO ACCORD ROOSEVELT CITY'S RECORD PARADE

CHILDREN TESTIFY THEY SAW 2 MEN FIGHTING IN HOME

C. C. Clayton, Brother of Veteran Atlanta Fireman, Succumbs to Fractured Skull Without Making Statement.

WIFE OF DEAD MAN TELLS OF QUARRELS

Woman Says Husband
Was Beaten by Firefighter; Prisoner Claims Brother Fell From Bed.

Captain Roy V. Clayton, veteran Atlanta fireman, was ordered held for the murder of his brother, C. C. Clayton, 42, of 538 McKee street, by a coroner's jury Friday afternoon after two children, neighbors of the firefighter, testified they saw the brothers
fighting Tuesday several hours before
C. C. Clayton was carried to Grady hospital with injuries which resulted in his death early Friday morning.

C. C. Clayton, who was an unemployed electrical worker, and who had been living with his brother, died without making a statement. Doctors testified before the coroner that he came to his death from violently inflicted injuries.

Numerous witnesses were called to testify regarding the relations of the brothers, including the dead man's wife, who swore that Roy Clayton had beaten her husband on at least one occasion. She had been living with her father, J. O. Ewing, at 552 Parkway drive, N. E.

Before she took the stand, Mrs.
Clayton became hysterical and was led from the room, but when she was called to the witness stand again
her composure and related a story of violent quarrels and blows between her husband and his brother.

Two children, Lois Floyd, 10, of 550 McKee street, two doors from the Clayton home, and Lamar Mitchell, 13, of 200 Orchard street, testified that they saw Roy Clayton beating his brother's head against a post on the porch of his home last Tuesday. Efforts of Ellis B. Barrett, representing the defendant, to make their testimony fail, both said that the fireman beat his brother's head against the post several times
over a period of 15 minutes.

H. B. Hightower, ambulance driver
at Grady, the first witness called,
said he was called to the Clayton home Wednesday morning and found the injured man unconscious. He described his injuries as consisting of bruised eyes, bruises on the head
and lacerations, abrasions and contusions.
He swore that Roy Clayton accompanied him to the hospital.

He said that the injured man had been drinking but that he smelled
no liquor on the breath of his brother.

Dr. Hugh Linder, Grady intern, who accompanied the ambulance, said
the patient was seriously bruised and injured. It was his witness description of discolored eyes and the

Wood Wealth Claimed For New Irish Cousins

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—
Asserting that Hugh and Michael Kennedy, of Dublin, Ireland, are second blood cousins of the late Mrs. Ida E. Wood, aged reclus, and as such the only persons entitled to her $1,000,000 estate, public Administrator James E. Egan
today filed a petition with Surrogate John O'Brien asking that he be appointed administrator to protect their interests.

Should their relationship be established, 18 persons claiming the estate of Mrs. Wood would be barraged of all right to the fortune.
Surrogate O'Brien adjourned argument on the appointment of an administrator until November 11.

17TH ANNUAL FAIR WILL OPEN TODAY WITH AUTO RACES

One of Most Successful Events in Atlanta History Predicted; Colorful Programs Arranged.

The seventeenth annual Southeastern Fair, described by officials as promising to be one of the most successful seasons in its history, will get under way at Lakewood park this afternoon when the gates are opened to admit thousands who are expected to attend the automobile races scheduled for today.

While the exhibit buildings, amusement devices and midway carnivals
are not prepared to receive the swarm of people expected to throng to the fair, it was announced Friday night that all of these attractions will be open Monday, which has been designated "Atlanta Day" at the fair.

The motor races are expected to give the early fair-goers a foretaste
of thrills to come during next week.
Southern championship automobile racing is on the program for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Many of the drivers, all of the south, arrived at Lakewood Friday and were tuning up their motors for Saturday's races. Bob Huckman, the sensational motorcycle
"fence-buster," also reported Friday
that he would be on this afternoon's program as previously announced because of an injured hand, sustained
in one of his performances elsewhere.

He said he would be ready Monday, however.

Lakewood park was a busy place
Friday in all departments, with workmen performing last-minute tasks preparatory to the big opening Monday
when the midway and exhibit buildings will be again with Atlanta's 50-100 school children, taking advantage of "School Days" Monday. Monday
also has been designated official "Atlanta Day" by Mayor Key's proclamation
and a half holiday will be observed
by all municipal departments as well.

Overloading Trucks Brings Fines to Two

The first Fulton county cases of prosecution of truck drivers for violation of the state motor carrier act,
which regulates the load on trucks operating on the highways, brought guilty pleas in the criminal court of Atlanta Friday.

The defendants were arrested by county police using the new movable
scales recently purchased by the county commission. The truck of one of the defendants was arrested September 25, pleaded guilty before Judge Jesse Wood on a charge of violating the motor carrier for hire act
and was fined $25.

F. W. Burkett, charged with violating the motor carrier act, was arrested Thursday and pleaded guilty before Judge O. L. Shelton. His truck is alleged to have been loaded in excess of 18,500 pounds on the Marietta road. He was placed under a three-month suspended sentence.

The corporation was informed that in the rural sections of many of the 35 parishes as much as 40 per cent of the farm land is not in cultivation
because financial resources have become exhausted and credit is not available. The yellow pine industry, formerly

R.F.C. LOAN REPORT WILL BE WITHHELD AT LEAST A WEEK

Trimble Will Refrain
From Releasing Data
Until He Has Studied
Legal Aspects.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—
The bulky list of borrowers from the Reconstruction Corporation will be withheld from public scrutiny at least until next week because of the objections against publicity expressed by the lending organization with the clerk of the house of representatives.

South Trimble, the clerk, while studying the arguments presented,
made public the letter of objection
from Allee Pomerene, chairman, and an accompanying brief by Morton G.
Bogue, general counsel of the corporation. Both came to him yesterday together with the monthly report covering August loans.

Pomerene contended that Trimble's publication of the July report—the first made to the house and senate under provisions of the relief law—had caused a "serious embarrassment" to borrowers and had frightened off other potential loan seekers.

In a formal statement Trimble said that in view of the corporation's request not to make the report public,
he felt "justified in withholding publication of the report until I have had an opportunity to carefully consider the (Bogue) opinion."

This document stated "the provisions of the act do not directly or indirectly authorize publication of these reports by the clerk, and do not permit
him to afford the public the right or opportunity to inspect them."

In a papal encyclical he renewed
his protests at the situation in Mexico, directed particularly at the varied
application of laws limiting the number of priests in each Mexican state
to from one for each 33,000 persons to one for each 100,000.

"To approve such an iniquitous law or to give it spontaneous a true and real co-operation," the pontiff wrote,
"is undoubtedly forbidden and sacrilegious; but absolutely different is the case of him who subjects himself to such an unjust prescription only against his will and protest, and who does all he can to diminish the unhappy effects of the unhappy law."

Under his plan of formal co-operation the pope permits the priests to ask permission from the Mexican government to exercise their ministry.
This conduct, he wrote, "is therefore not much different from that of the man who, having been despoiled of his possessions, seeks himself to ask the unjust despoiler to grant
him at least the use of his possessions."

He charged the Mexican government with "acting against the spirit
in which the Modus Vivendi was concluded" in 1929.

That agreement regulated the operation of the church, but, said the pon-tiff, many parts of it have been violated by imprisonment or expulsion of bishops, priests and the faithful, and by failure to recall all bishops from exile.

He urged the episcopacy and the faithful to continue protests against the limitation laws. Such protests may be vain, he said, but they will serve to convince the faithful that the government "offends liberties of the church which the church never will renounce, even in the face of violence of persecutors."

The situation in Mexico, he wrote,
is similar to that in Russia.

POPE REVERSES MEXICAN POLICY WOUNDED IN BACK, YOUTH NEAR DEATH

Vatican Orders Priests To Extend "Formal Co-operation" to Government.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 30.—(AP)— Without renouncing the principles he has previously enunciated, and without withdrawing his past condemnation of the "legal persecution" of Catholics in Mexico, Pope Pius today announced a policy of "formal cooperation" with the authorities in that country.

In a papal encyclical he renewed
his protests at the situation in Mexico, directed particularly at the varied
application of laws limiting the number of priests in each Mexican state

happy effects of the unhappy law."

tion the pope permits the priests to

fore not much different from that of

INSULL FIRM FAILS AS PROBES BARE TREASURY DRAIN

R. F. C. Loan Fails To Save Line; $170,222
Paid to Martin J. Insull, Prosecutors Find.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Another Insull operating company went into receivership today while prosecutors,
delving into the books of Middle West
Utilities and Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Company, reported evidence that they had paid off a $170,222 brokerage account for Martin J. Insull.

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad was the latest of the Insull transportation units to confess itself unable to meet expenses in a federal court action.

So severe had the decline in business been that during the last eight months the electric line, operating between Chicago and Milwaukee, had not met operating costs and even a loan of $1,150,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would not ward off receivership.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson
appointed A. A. Sprague and Britton
I. Budd receivers. Liabilities of the North Shore line were estimated at $3,000,000 more than current assets,
and the company consented to the petition filed by the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, a creditor.

The latest official purported revelation of the coverage of Insull personal accounts by withdrawals from the funds of their investment houses was made in a statement by State Attorney John A. Swanson. The prosecutor said he discovered two checks, paying off the debts of Martin Insull
to the brokerage firms of Russell,
Brewster & Company and Jackson Brothers & Company.

He did not comment as to what proceedings would be taken. Swanson began his investigation last week to determine whether criminal laws of Illinois had been violated in the Insull financial operations.

The two checks were dated between last December 31 and last February

BANKS APPROVE COUNTY BUDGET

Clearing House Acceptance Permits Payment of Fulton Wages Today.

The Atlanta Clearing House Association Friday approved the September budget of county operations and warrants will be drawn this morning
for September salaries of county employees. The salary money is to come from funds lent by the bankers.

The acceptance of the September
budget was announced by George F.
Longino, chairman of the county's finance committee of the board of commissioners, following a conference with the bankers Thursday afternoon.
The pay roll, which will be distributed
this morning, amounts to approximately $180,000.

Employees in the office of the county treasurer were busy Friday preparing the checks for distribution this morning. Today is the regular payday for county employees and it is expected that all the checks will be issued by the time the courthouse
closes at noon.

Soldiers Lay Aside Guns As Puerto Rico Rebuilds

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sept.
30.—(AP)—National guardsmen laid aside their guns today by order of Governor Beverly to become for the moment carpenters and masons in the rebuilding of the city.

The governor also requested United States troops be detailed if available to the duty of repairing the damage wrought by last Monday's hurricane. All the able-bodied citizens already are at the task of reconstruction.

The governor estimated today that 75,000 persons had been left homeless. Police listed 217 killed, 2,219 injured and millions of dollars in property destroyed.

TAMMANY SLATED TO BACK WALKER FOR MAYORALTY

New York Organization, However, Will Not Withdraw Support From Roosevelt and Lehman.

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN.
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Despite a tangle of political situation,
Tammany Hall and its allies were said
tonight by a leader high in organization politics to have agreed to support
Franklin D. Roosevelt for president, Herbert H. Lehman for governor and James J. Walker for mayor.

The statement was made after the democratic city organization had denied renominations to two of Roosevelt's appointees to the supreme court,
Thursday, the day Governor Roosevelt said they were one of them nominated a republican.

Lehman is Roosevelt's own choice for the gubernatorial nomination at next week's democratic state convention.

Walker, when he resigned at the height of ouster proceedings before Governor Roosevelt, said he was leaving his case "in the hands of the voters."

Since then the appellate division of the supreme court has ruled that a majority election must be held November 8, and a citywide democratic convention has been called for next Thursday. The city of New York expects to return from a European cruise.

In the face of a situation which brought widespread speculation, James
A. Farley, democratic national chairman, and also head of the party's state committee, declared:
"Nothing has happened to change
my opinion that Governor Roosevelt will carry New York state by more than 725,000."

Other leaders at national headquarters said they were convinced Tammany would go through with its Roosevelt-Lehman-Walker program.

The Sun said:
"Curry (John F. Curry, Tammany leader) said he was not going to withdraw support from Roosevelt."

Rail Body Members Accept Appointments

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—
Walter H. Bennett, president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, announced today that the members of the new non-partisan railway commission had formally accepted their appointments and "very generously agreed to serve without compensation."

The new commission, headed by Calvin Coolidge, is sponsored by more than 30 leading banks and insurance companies which are heavy holders of railway securities. Its object will be to survey the transportation situation with the view of later recommending remedial legislation.

In addition to former President
Coolidge, the members of the commission are former Governor Alfred E.
Smith, Alexander E. Leage, former chairman of the federal farm board;
Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlantic Constitution, and Bernard M.
Bancroft, financial expert.

Mr. Bennett, acting as spokesman for the commission's sponsors, stated that an organization meeting probably would be held early next week.

THOUSANDS HAIL "NEXT PRESIDENT"

Short Speech in Wiscon-

Gathering in History.'

Full Text of Roosevelt's
Address in Page 3.

BY FREDERICK A. STORM.
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Chicago democrats welcomed Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight with a torch-light parade and all the other gay-90 political trappings.

The governor stepped from his special train at 9 p. m. after a two-hour run from Milwaukee, smiled at the din which echoed to the rafters of the Union station, and went out into the midst of what the democrats called the greatest political demonstration in the history of Chicago.

Even if the democrats were exag-gerating, it was one of the most spectacular political affairs in Chicago witnessed since the Bull Moose days
of 1912, when another Roosevelt,
Theodore, was the honored guest.

Twenty-five thousand citizens surged over the cobblestones around the station. They beat tin pans, blew horns, shouted and waved.

Six brass bands tooted the same
"Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here" that heralded the coming of presidential candidates in the last century. Members of one band even wore white silk hats, resurrected from the limbo of an almost forgotten past.

Four bearers with oil cloth capes
to keep the crowd off their collars were there. Skittishly they waved their flaming caps of kerosene on the end of long poles; it had been years since they had seen such a political rally.
The red light men in linen dusters,
looking for all the world like ghosts
of 30 years ago, carried their hissing flares. Some flared tradition by carrying green lights.

Turns Time Backward.
One hundred and fifty police on horses shied at the flashing lights, but paid no attention to the cacophony
of the bands.

Had it not been for the shiny automobiles and the skyscrapers which were outlined waverily in the passing lights, the whole scene might have been lifted bodily from the time of the Blaines, the Davises and the Marks Hannas.

Governor Roosevelt posed for photographers, shook the hands of as many democrats as could come within

Joins Milwaukee in Frenzied Greeting of "Next President."

gripping distance, and followed a flying wedge of police to his automobile.

When the governor's car turned into Jackson boulevard for an eight-block drive to the Congress hotel, the democratic horde swung in behind.

The horns, rattles, whistles, bugles and fifes and the drums seemed to make the autumn air tremble between the tall buildings.

To Attend Ball Game.
Mayor Anton J. Cermak and other democratic leaders who went to Milwaukee to meet the democratic presidential nominee, accompanied him in an automobile at the head of the parade.

There was an informal reception at the hotel. The governor, Mrs. Roosevelt and members of their party then retired. The Roosevelt family will drive to the home of their old friend, J. L. Houghteling, in suburban Winnetka tomorrow.

After luncheon Governor Roosevelt will attend the third game of the World Series at Wrigley field and in the evening he will address a banquet at the Stevens hotel. He will leave for the east at 10 p. m.

Several hundred cheering democrats saw the governor off from Milwaukee. "Don't forget our beer, Frank," shouted one of the Milwaukeeans, whose home town once was one of the largest producers of that beverage in the country.

Roosevelt smiled and waved his hands.

In an afternoon address he had lauded Wisconsin republicans—famous for switching their vote—for this refreshing freedom from the party lockstep.

A crowd, said by the police to be 20,000, jammed the Milwaukee streets as Governor Roosevelt commended the liberalism of Wisconsin and declared that "government not only must protect the rights of the individual by maintaining an interest in the economic life, but it must extend the hand of aid and comfort whenever human values are at stake."

The thoroughbred taxed the capacity of the big fraternal hall room to its feet and roared a thundering ovation when F. Ryan Duffy, senatorial candidate, declared, "This crowd is gathered to see and hear the next president of the United States!"

Thousands of Wisconsin citizens had caught a glimpse of the democratic presidential candidate on his passage from Beloit through fertile dairy lands to the Milwaukee station, and on an hour's automobile drive through the city that brought him to Eagles hall.

So dense was the crowd in front of the hall when his procession arrived there that Mrs. Anna Roosevelt, Dall, his daughter, and Mrs. James Roosevelt, the wife of his son, gave up their efforts to get into the hall and returned to their hotel before he began speaking.

Governor Roosevelt, escorted by James Roosevelt and a group of policemen, passed through a long line of long ramp to the stage while a continuous wave of applause came from the several thousand packed into the hall and the gallery with its ornate circle of boxes.

Governor Roosevelt said that "out here in Wisconsin you do not merely profess to be a republican, you are a republican. You set up standards to which liberals in all states have found it profitable and inspiring to repair. It is in this spirit that I speak to you today. I have been thinking about what these liberal principles of yours mean, in terms of actual legislative enactment and I have tried to find what seemed to me the essential principles behind them."

"These essential principles, as I see them, may in details differ from the interpretation which others place upon them, but to me they suffice as an inspiring record of a high ordered, intelligent, political movement."

"In the first place, there is the principle of old party allegiance in the true perspective. The choice this fall is one which involves a purpose and a principle deeper than any party. It is one which I hope and believe is the fulfillment of the hopes that many persons have held and I have said repeatedly with most remarkable response that the republican who believes in liberal principles, in a way, the situation that now exists, cannot fail to see that he has nothing in common with the blind reactionary spirit that characterizes the present administration in Washington."

"This refreshing freedom from the party lockstep is a Wisconsin habit. I hope the habit continues."

He praised the work of the state in regulating railroads and power and added:

"Government not only must protect the rights of the individual by maintaining an interest in economic life, but it must extend the hand of aid and comfort whenever human values are at stake."

He spoke of the liberal principles of education he said had been maintained in the University of Wisconsin and added:

"These principles of liberal thought I hold to be of inestimable human importance. You have done much here in this state to give this liberal application. I respect you for having believed in them and worked toward them. They deserve universal application."

Mr. Roosevelt made no reference by name to the La Follette or the group that has supported the late Senator Robert M. La Follette and his two sons, Governor Phil La Follette and Senator Robert M. Jr.

He was introduced by F. Ryan Duffy, the democratic candidate for senator, in a short talk in which Duffy said the democrats of Wisconsin were united behind the New York governor.

The automobile drive which took the governor from his special train wound through crowded downtown streets in which paper came showering down from the windows of office buildings. The route led through a foreign quarter, along the shores of Lake Michigan and through a residential section and back to the hall.

Thousands of persons lined the sidewalks and pushed far out into the streets to watch him pass. Numerous school buildings were along the route and there arose the shrill-voiced clamor of hundreds of children.

His speech at the Eagles hall preceded a public reception and informal dinner at the Schroeder hotel before his party continued again for the journey to Chicago.

In his speech at the hall Roosevelt evoked hearty laughter with the remark:

"As I traveled over your beautiful city I noticed that you have almost a school house to each block, thus proving that this is a Roosevelt town and believes in large families," said the nominee. "If you should extend the suffrage down to five years I most certainly would be elected."

He then related a story well known in New York about "Dick" Connell who ran for congress from Dutchess county in 1910, when Roosevelt ran for his first office, state senator.

"Dick Connell always made speeches at school houses," said Roosevelt, "because he said some day the children would be able to vote and eventually there would be enough of them to elect him."

"He was right. He was elected in 1910."

GARNER PRAISES SPEECH OF ROOSEVELT IN IOWA
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(P)—Speaker John N. Garner today said in a statement that "Governor Roosevelt's speech struck directly to the roots of the evils responsible for existing economic conditions and cannot fail to impress all whose minds are open to sound logic."

The text of the democratic vice presidential nominee's statement continued:

"Governor Roosevelt's statement in reference to economy in governmental expenditures will be of special interest to the overburdened taxpayers of the country, and his assertion that the present has the right and even the duty of taking a moral leadership in bringing about a reduction of state and local taxes as well as those of federal government will strike a responsive chord throughout the country."

"That is the kind of leadership the country needs, leadership which has been denied under this republican administration. It is manifest that until the country has leadership of this type there will be very little reduction in the tax burden."

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—(P)—Massachusetts republicans in convention today adopted a platform calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment but with a guarantee against the return of the saloon.

With only a scattering of "noes" the 1,052 delegates to the convention adopted a resolution reading: "We favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment with absolute guarantee which will protect each state against interference and invasion by its neighbors and will prevent the return of the saloon."

Text of Roosevelt's Address Before Milwaukee Admirers

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Following is the text of address delivered at the Eagles Club here by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for the presidency:

"No one who believes in the importance of liberal principles can come to the state of Wisconsin and fail to be deeply impressed by the fact that in your state he is in the presence of great liberal traditions. It is not the birthplace of liberalism, because the aspirations of this belief are as old as humanity, but so much in the way of demonstration of the practical utility of liberal principles."

"Out here in Wisconsin you do not merely protest against the teachings of the present order, you set out to correct them. You put your ideas to work. You set up standards to which liberals in all states have found it profitable and inspiring to repair. It is in this spirit that I want to speak to you today."

"Back in the days when I was in college and began to ponder the great principles of political life, I learned much and profited much about what was going on in Wisconsin. The things that you were doing were not only contributions of immeasurable value to the state, but they were inspiring to the youth of all the land."

NEW YORK HAS PROFITED BY WISCONSIN'S EXAMPLE.
"I stand here today quite conscious of the fact that these great basic principles were not only useful to me in forming the lines of my political life, but that when as governor of New York I met the problems in practice, I found that our state of New York had in many respects profited by the pioneer efforts of Wisconsin."

"And now I have been thinking about what these liberal principles of yours mean, in terms of actual legislative enactment, and I have tried to find what seemed to me the essential principles behind them. These essential principles, as I see them, may in details differ from the interpretation which others place upon them, but to me they suffice as an inspiring record of a high ordered, intelligent political movement."

"In the first place, there is the principle of old party allegiance in its true perspective. The choice this fall is one which involves a purpose and a principle deeper than any party. It is one which I hope and believe is the fulfillment of the hopes that many persons have held and I have said repeatedly with most remarkable response that the republican who believes in liberal principles, in a way, the situation that now exists, cannot fail to see that he has nothing in common with the blind reactionary spirit that characterizes the present administration in Washington. This refreshing freedom from the party lockstep is a Wisconsin habit. I hope the habit continues."

"This refreshing freedom from the party lockstep is a Wisconsin habit. I hope the habit continues."

He praised the work of the state in regulating railroads and power and added:

"Government not only must protect the rights of the individual by maintaining an interest in economic life, but it must extend the hand of aid and comfort whenever human values are at stake."

He spoke of the liberal principles of education he said had been maintained in the University of Wisconsin and added:

"These principles of liberal thought I hold to be of inestimable human importance. You have done much here in this state to give this liberal application. I respect you for having believed in them and worked toward them. They deserve universal application."

Mr. Roosevelt made no reference by name to the La Follette or the group that has supported the late Senator Robert M. La Follette and his two sons, Governor Phil La Follette and Senator Robert M. Jr.

He was introduced by F. Ryan Duffy, the democratic candidate for senator, in a short talk in which Duffy said the democrats of Wisconsin were united behind the New York governor.

The automobile drive which took the governor from his special train wound through crowded downtown streets in which paper came showering down from the windows of office buildings. The route led through a foreign quarter, along the shores of Lake Michigan and through a residential section and back to the hall.

Thousands of persons lined the sidewalks and pushed far out into the streets to watch him pass. Numerous school buildings were along the route and there arose the shrill-voiced clamor of hundreds of children.

His speech at the Eagles hall preceded a public reception and informal dinner at the Schroeder hotel before his party continued again for the journey to Chicago.

public service commission of my state. We have at least accomplished this much—that in many cases throughout the state rates have been made definitely and effectively lower by action of the public service commission as it has been constituted for the past year and a half. They have been handicapped, as have many other forward-looking liberal public bodies, by the present interpretation by the courts, the federal courts even, of the theory of rate base. And I have made it fully clear, and I know what the great majority of people in Wisconsin will agree with me that the so-called reproduction theory is wholly untrue, and that we must substitute for this a rate base which rests on the theory of prudent investments—in other words, a fair return on the actual money going into the public utility itself, and no more."

GOVERNMENT MUST AID IN HUMAN VALUES ISSUE.
"Closely related to this second point is a third—that government not only must protect the rights of the individual by maintaining an interest in economic life, but it must extend the hand of aid and comfort whenever human values are at stake."

"This must be done not indiscriminately, but with the greatest care, and with the ordered exactness of an enlightened humanitarianism. This you have done and done admirably."

"Another problem which has perplexed our national life particularly in the past few years has been met in this, your city of Milwaukee. I am told that with respect to the enforcement of the law as regards serious crimes and dangerous criminals this city has a splendid record. Its police department is admittedly in the forefront among American cities as to efficiency and honesty. Your criminal courts and other agencies of law enforcement are beyond question admirable. You have learned well the lesson that we all need to learn, that property and life must be made safe, and that no country should claim to be democratic in a true sense unless it has made certain of those primary human possessions. There is no rule of the racketeer in Milwaukee, and for this I congratulate you."

GOVERNMENT CAN AID SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENT.
"Finally the state of Wisconsin for many years has recognized the fact that in order that human progress may be made, and that government may become truly intelligent and useful, the best of science, the best of intelligent achievement must be made practical, and be put at the disposal of the people. In the development of your educational system in this state you have realized in a practical way what must have been the ideal toward which Jefferson moved in planning the educational system of Virginia. You have maintained in your university the high principle of intellectual freedom—you have insisted that intellectual freedom carries with it intellectual responsibility."

"The scientist, if he is to be useful, must be protected. So government, and the people generally, have profited from your right attitude, with respect to this subject. You have demonstrated the great value of the principle that science must aid the making of law."

"The lasting benefit of the great fight which you have waged to establish these principles in the fabric of our national life will, I am sure, point the way to a final truth. It is a truth which, regardless of temporary victory or defeat, will endure throughout history. No nation can endure or maintain the happiness of its people unless there is a continuous movement forward, toward a better-ordered and more just benefit of the advantages of civilization. To many this process seems hopeless because of the length of time which must pass before any noticeable gain can be realized. There always will be a selfish cry from a few—'Why should we do battle for benefits which will not accrue to us, but merely to future generations?' But these people had their way for

have no changes except by violence, but in Milwaukee and in Wisconsin generally you have shown that sound changes can be made through education and a patient understanding, finally expressed through the democratic principle of our republic—the franchise of voting. Women suffrage, for instance, came about through the devotion of a few to its cause, and the final approval of the principle by the great mass of voters. There are many changes which have come, and will come, for the benefit of those of us alive today, but I believe that I also speak the thought of millions of men and women in this country when I say that we will not be afraid to advocate and work for those benefits which we, perhaps, may not see to a conclusion in our lifetime, but which will mean a greater happiness and a higher standard of living, not only for our children, but for all of those who follow."

DEMOCRAT SUCCESS VITAL, SAYS SMITH

liberal background and record. In the past it has never failed to be hospitable to new ideas. . . .

"I believe the present administration in Washington, if continued, will not begin to solve our present problems, it has had a chance to do it and has failed utterly. . . . The one great chance that the democratic party had during my lifetime is presented to it now. I believe it is able to meet it. I believe it can, too, as far as government can go to solve the problems of this country. . . . I believe the success of the democratic party in the coming election is essential to the upbuilding of our national prosperity and our nation well-being."

"The republican party must take the responsibility for its own palpable and inexcusable mistakes, delays and general ineptitude."

Smith hit at what he called administration delay and quibbling in unemployment relief and progress toward economic reconstruction. He charged President Hoover with miffing the opportunity to make the most of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He assailed the president's stand on prohibition and asserted Mr. Hoover "still insists on kicking away the hundreds of millions of dollars which could easily be raised by a tax on beer and wine."

On the question of tariff, Smith said: "The nation cannot continue to live under the smug theory that we are a self-contained nation and that we require no assistance from the outside world. We witnessed the absolute paralysis of our foreign trade unquestionably brought about by our recent extreme tariff laws. . . . no man in a friendly spirit sends the sheriff after his neighbor."

Less than $20,000,000 of the $300,000,000 for direct relief under the emergency relief act has been allotted, Smith said, "because of the president's insistence upon making expenditure of the entire sum discretionary with the R. C. C. and because of his warning that only near-bankrupt states could get money under this head and because of legal quibbles. . . . And Smith added that "not a man in this country out of work has as yet been employed as a result" of the credit of $1,500,000,000 given the R. F. C. under the head of self-liquidating projects.

Life Insurance Is One of Life's Greatest Needs, Says H. M. Powell

POLICYHOLDERS URGED TO KEEP UP GREAT PROTECTION

General Agent of State Mutual Life Assurance Company Points Out Difference Between Real and False Economy.

"During the past two and one-half years we have heard a great deal about hard times," says H. M. Powell, general agent of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company. "Those of us in the life insurance business have heard more pitiful stories than any other group of men and women. The average policyholder feels very close to the life insurance man and a great many times he has heard the policyholder say 'I must let my life insurance go; I cannot afford it.' When he is questioned closely he usually says 'There are so many other payments that I have to make that I cannot meet my life insurance and I must economize somewhere.'"

"Not long ago I had a man come to my office and make the above statement. I said to him 'I suppose you have given up your pleasure car?' He said 'No.' 'I imagine you have dropped your fire insurance?' He said 'No.' 'Have you taken John out of the private boys' school?' He said 'No.' 'Do you still have your servants?' He said 'Yes.' Then I said 'Surely you do not plan to drop your life insurance when you are doing all the above things do you?'

house ever burning, but if your life insurance policy is kept in force, it will mature and some day, you know, you will die. There is no guess work."

"The sure, Mr. Policyholder, that when you are planning economy that you start at the right end. Dispende with the non-essentials, and there is no better economy in the world for you and your family than to be prepared for the rainy day by keeping your life insurance in force."

"It has been very hard during the past two and one-half years for the agent himself to keep out of a slump, but I find that the one thing that will keep you in good spirits and relieve you of much worry is to work. When I think of work I think of what Theodore Roosevelt said:

"I extend pity to no man because he has to work. If he is worth his salt, he will work. I envy the man who has work worth doing and does it well. There never has been devised, and there never will be devised, any law which will enable a man to succeed save by the exercise of those qualities which have always been the prerequisites of success, the qualities of hard work, of keen intelligence, of unflinching will."

"In buying life insurance, here are some of the things that the applicant should keep in mind:

"1. Is the company conservatively and economically managed?"

"2. Is it far and liberal in its treatment of policyholders and beneficiaries?"

"3. Does its financial condition inspire confidence both for the present and future?"

New Homes Made Better--Old Homes Made New

BY VICTOR BARRON.

The Georgia Roofing Supply Company, the approved bonded roofer for the Johns-Manville Sales Corporation in this territory, is understood to be selling considerable roofing throughout its territory. The company owns the Home Insulating Company of Georgia, both of which are subsidiaries of the Atlanta Flour and Grain Company, located at 52 Mangum street.

This is one of the largest and most progressive business organizations in the southeast.

Officials, it is understood, used keen business judgment in purchasing a huge quantity of roofing board a recent 20 per cent advance in prices, thus enabling them to purchase at low prices.

Various J-M Lines.

For more than half a century Johns-Manville has been engaged in the manufacture and sale of buildings. Through the experience gained in these years of activity there has been developed a growing line of allied products, each of which contribute to the building of better and more comfortable homes.

Lester Forbes, local representative of Johns-Manville, states that the company now is putting on 550,000 square feet of bonded asbestos roofing for the Manchester Cotton mills, one of the Callaway plants. Some of the other major projects, he says, include asphalt floor tile for the entire seven floors of the new Volunteer building here, 20,000 square feet for offices in the State Capitol building, 15,000 square feet in the Orpheum building, 35,000 square feet in the city schools, and for the library, school and basement rooms of the new Atlanta University. This tile can be obtained in all kinds of patterns and colors, and is used extensively in kitchens and bathrooms.

Description of Products.

Mr. Forbes gives the following description of some of Johns-Manville's products:

"Johns-Manville asbestos shingles are the ideal roofing material. In appearance and quality, these permanent, unburnable shingles deserve to be termed a luxury, but from the practical standpoint of actual cost, they are within the reach of practically every budget."

"Second only to J-M asbestos shingles are J-M asphalt shingles—durable, fire-resistant and low in cost, in an unequal range of colors and blends. "J-M ready-to-apply roofings provide for every type of building on which ready roofing can be used, the utmost in protection depending on the type chosen."

"In addition to shingles, roofing and other products, the Johns-Manville line includes a wide variety of those "necessary items," such as sheathing papers, slates, felts, plaster board, etc., which are required in building construction.

"The ultimate in house insulation, J-M rock wool home insulation makes available to owners of both new and old homes the maximum in year-round living comfort and winter fuel savings. Built or blown into the walls and roof spaces, J-M home insulation is a thick insulating material that is permanent, vermin-proof, rot-proof and odorless—a material that, moreover, absolutely will not burn."

"In Johns-Manville insulating board is found a structural and insulating material with almost unlimited possibilities for use in constructing, insulating, decorating and remodeling all types of home. It is also available in special forms known as insulating lath, bevel board and panelboard."

"J-M asbestos wainscoting, the new, permanent, colorful wall material, has all the advantages of tiled walls, but, being made in sheet form, can be installed by any carpenter, using ordinary tools."

"Johns-Manville transite and asbestos wall board meet all needs for exterior and interior work where strength, rigidity and fire-resisting qualities are essential."

"For restoring old wood, metal and composition roofs, and for the many miscellaneous repair jobs which involve patching, pointing up or waterproofing, Johns-Manville manufactures a complete line of roof coatings, roof and caulking putties and cements."

White Birch a Beauty.

The white birch is the smallest and least widely distributed of the birches of eastern North America, says Nature Magazine. It is rarely more than forty feet high, and its trunk seldom becomes greater than eighteen inches in diameter. Its branches often clothe the stem nearly to the ground with their slender lengths, and their ends divide into numerous dark-brown, wiry branches on which the leaves, in fall, are a shower of gold.

Sterchi's Offers New Ideas For Decoration of Homes

In order to give a more complete and more efficient interior decoration service, Sterchi's, one of the largest homefurnishings establishments in the south, with its commodious Atlanta store located at 116-120 Whitehall street, has recently remodeled the larger part of their fourth floor, which is devoted entirely to rugs and draperies.

This new arrangement embodies the most advanced principles of display for showing fabrics of all kinds. The windows have been built so that nearly every type of window treatment may be seen in this department, according to Paul C. Sillin, decorations expert of Sterchi's. This makes it very much easier for the customer to visualize the fabric being purchased, as it can be seen on a window exactly as it would appear in the home.

All the fabrics for drapery and upholstery are shown from large samples, making it possible to come scheme for a room or entire home right before the customer's eyes, without the inconvenience of going from one part of the department to another.

Mr. Sillin says: "I have tried to create an atmosphere of homelike comfort in arranging this department, for I know that people today enjoy shopping amid beautiful surroundings. Our arrangements of model windows combined with a service of model rooms on the same floor makes it possible for us to show not only new ideas of window treatment, but new ideas of furniture arrangement. Despite the fact that fabrics are very hard to get, our stock is quite complete and new fall merchandise is arriving every day. We are bending every effort to make this department one of the most outstanding in the entire south and we now are in the position to offer one of the most complete interior decoration services found outside of the metropolitan area."

Price Trend Upward.

"Prices are one-third lower than during normal times," Mr. Curtis pointed out.

"The trend to advance already is evident as to dry colors and linseed oil. They have struck bottom. Stocks at manufacturers have dwindled to practically nothing; some manufacturers have sold entirely out and new orders are having to wait until manufacturers can produce more."

"This situation applies to other lines, and when reserve stocks are exhausted, it simply means that new orders naturally will be made at new prices, which already are showing an upward tendency, and I believe that anyone taking advantage of the prevailing low prices to 'paint up' will save considerable money, not only on paint products and allied lines, but on labor."

"Home owners and business men should not only save themselves money by painting up now, but will serve the community well by doing so, as it will relieve to a marked extent the unemployment situation."

LIFE INSURANCE

What Will Become of My BUSINESS?

Usually it is the best plan, when one of the owners of a business dies, for his associates to buy his share at once—and for cash, if possible.

That solves a number of problems for those who carry on. It is equally fair to the heirs of the deceased—the sort of arrangement I should want for my own family.

Why not prepare as best we can to avoid costly misunderstandings, litigation, delays—even involuntary dissolution of the business?

Insurance on our lives can furnish not only the purchase money, but also a potential credit fund or reserve against retirement.

ATLANTA, GA., OCT. 1, 1932.

THE CALL OF THE CHEST.

Time and again it has been pointed out that the call of the Community Chest is more emergent this year than it has ever been before.

The repetition of that message must not be permitted to dull the poignancy of its warning of city-wide suffering—even death—if Atlanta does not respond this year as it has never before.

The demands on the Chest are not lessened by the fact that funds for the care of the unemployed are being furnished by the federal and local governments. Just the opposite is true for many of those now unemployed gave aid in past years to unfortunate friends and relatives. In the midst of the soul-trying times through which we are now going, we are apt to think of social service in concrete terms of relief, food and clothing to meet the pressing emergency. Those practical relief steps must be taken, it is true, but the work of the Chest goes far beyond.

No better illustration of the wide ramifications of Chest endeavors—necessary and vital work—is to be found than in its care of neglected children, whose plights are made all the worse by the economic conditions, but who need far more than a hand-out of food and clothing and some sort of shelter.

The taking of young lives out of surroundings of crime and degradation and the turning of adventure-some young spirits into channels of usefulness and wholesome ambitions cannot be allowed to lag. This type of social service relief work must be kept up or it will be too late to put these unfortunate boys and girls on the right pathway to becoming upright and healthy men and women.

If there should be a limiting of the scope of work now being done by the adequate children's agencies supported by the Chest, these youngsters will eventually become the social problem of the next decade.

OUR UNEQUAL TAXES.

A striking instance of tax dodging, made possible by inadequate legal safeguards, is cited by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in the case of a St. Louis estate bringing in a revenue of $56,000 last year but which paid a tax of only $45.97 into the treasury of the state of Kansas. The estate is valued at $1,126,000, being invested chiefly in securities and mortgages.

Commenting on a survey taken by a group of prominent Kansas citizens to demonstrate the state's need for additional tax laws, the Post-Dispatch says:

This is not an isolated case, it is shown in the survey. Meanwhile, laborers and farmers in moderate circumstances, who own their homes, paid more to the state than did many wealthy persons. The survey showed that estates of $100,000 or less paid taxes on an average of 67 per cent of their value, while those of $500,000 or more paid on only 19 per cent.

The failure of intangibles to pay their proper share of the tax burden is one of the most serious features of the taxation problem faced by practically every state and local government in the country.

In Georgia the classification tax amendment to the constitution, which will be passed on by the voters at November's election, will go far towards lightening the burden of taxation which real estate has been carrying in this state.

Under the present system of ad valorem taxation, a property owner pays the entire tax on the property, while the man who holds the mortgage on it, in most cases, pays no tax whatsoever. As a result, the man of small means in Georgia is carrying most of the tax burden, while, as in the case in Kansas, those with fortunes tied up in securities and mortgages have been escaping their just share of the cost of government.

That is one of the chief reasons why the farmers of Georgia are struggling under a load that is practically confiscatory and why there are not more home owners in the state. It is an evil which is directly struck at by the proposed classification tax amendment, which should, and undoubtedly will, be overwhelmingly approved by the voters in November.

A REPUBLICAN PROTEST.

Even so staunch a republican newspaper as the Philadelphia Public Ledger is led to protest against the vicious whispering campaign, bearing on the physical condition of Governor Roosevelt, which is being attempted in certain sections of the country.

Pointing out that a discreditable feature of many major political campaigns is, regrettably, the undecorous and scandalous misinformation circulated by unscrupulous propagandists, the Public Ledger says:

The directors of Governor Roosevelt's campaign for the presidency are rightly resenting the spread of rumors that their candidate's condition of health makes him unfit for public office, and have presented medical testimony to the contrary. Decent citizens on both sides of the political fence should accept the statements of Moore, Francis P. Garvan and James A. Farley, who have publicly and circumstantially denied the rumors of Governor Roosevelt's inability to carry the burdens of public office, and cast their vote for or against the democratic candidate according to the issues before the nation and his position in respect to them.

In nearly every instance in the past when undercover efforts have been made to discredit national candidates through the circulation of rumors which could not stand the light of open and above-board presentation, they have become boomerangs to the party sought to be benefited.

Certainly the whisperings against the physical condition of Governor Roosevelt will prove the undoing of those responsible for them. The virility, sturdiness and fire exhibited by the democratic presidential nominee during the strenuous trip he is now making—a campaign tour calculated to try the strength of any man not in perfect physical condition—puts the lie on the slimy and slanderous rumors which have, in a suspiciously concerted manner, suddenly been launched in widely separated sections.

The truth of the matter is that Governor Roosevelt, aside from a slight impediment in his walk, is in better physical condition probably than ninety-nine out of a hundred men in the country. No better corroboration of this statement could be asked than the fact that he recently obtained life insurance of a half million dollars. So great was the amount involved that he was examined by the head medical authorities of several of the largest life insurance companies of America, their unanimous report being that his physical condition made him an exceptionally good risk. Incidentally, he made the Warm Springs Foundation the beneficiary of these policies.

Unquestionably he is possessed of that physical vigor that is characteristic of the members of his family, including former President Theodore Roosevelt.

The affliction from which he suffered some years ago has left its mark only in its effect upon his lower limbs. Completely cured years ago, he is less likely than any other man, woman or child in the nation to contract infantile paralysis again.

And we suppose if an atom should split a scientist, that would be news.

Poetry is the overflow of a powerful emotion, declares a critic. Yes—dam it.

Brisk weather, football, prices going up, optimism—what better fall menu could be asked.

It will no doubt delight Will Rogers' home had its funny side.

Every Atlantan should go to the Southeastern fair—and get a boost in his pride in his home state.

Speaking of modern miracles, Tokyo with more than 5,000,000 population and less than 100 years old should not be overlooked.

It may or may not be a good idea to "bring the Insults back," but a better course will be to recall the laws which made their operations possible.

The man who lost on the Cubs, got drunk, was arrested and then turned loose by the court probably feels that, after all, there is such a thing as justice.

Now it remains to be seen if the republicans will maintain their unbroken record of criticism of every suggestion made by Roosevelt by jumping on to his proposal of cuts.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Sharks!

A near panic was caused at Brighton, a British seaside resort, when bathers saw a huge shark approaching the shore. The beast swam around for a few hours, apparently content to play his part as a holiday attraction without too much self-assertion, though it appears that "many fishes" and an excellent view of the fish. The view was perhaps more admired from the pier than from the level of the water, for his size (eight feet), one which induces respect without inspiring confidence.

Yet the shark has his champions, even his admirers. It was the late Frank Bullen who wrote of him as "a most estimable character. He is an affectionate parent, and his lifelong friendship with the blue mackerel is in the nature of a romance. Perhaps the Brighton bathers will turn to look like blue mackerels. He devours, but he devours without malice. As Mr. Bullen puts it, he eats men, not because he likes men, but because they happen to be in the way. He has seen him eat a bag of cinders in the same way."

No doubt if he knew he was eating a lord of the kindly creature would apologize and go elsewhere.

Learn Esperanto.

The University of Lyons has passed a resolution recommending that Esperanto shall be an obligatory language in all schools, and in Canada the traffic notices are put up in Esperanto as well as French—most people imagine that it is in Rumanian, and wonder why.

The Esperantists, who recently held a congress in Paris, say that their language is taught officially in Spain, Sweden, Holland and Estonia. In Greece, its study is authorized in training colleges. In Denmark and in Brazil it is used for the publication of tourist information, while in Poland its propaganda is distributed by the government.

No reports are given of its progress in Great Britain or the United States. Can it be that there is another language which is considered to be sufficiently useful for international purposes in those two countries?

Aid to Storks.

Last year, owing to the cold, flocks of swallows in central Europe had to be transported by rail from Vienna and Budapest by rail and airship.

This year storks on their flight to the south have met with misfortune. In Czechoslovakia many storks, obviously from the north and on their way for several days, lost their strength from lack of food and fell into ponds, whence they could be fished out only with great difficulty. They were carried by motor cars to the nearest police stations, where the tired-out wanderers were fed with great care by the police. In some cases, storks, particularly, who brought them plenty of food, swallowed eagerly by the half-starved birds.

Thurs. many of them were saved from disaster, and after a few days continued their journey to the south. At Silesian Ostava, four storks circled on a trial flight. Bama County Closes Elementary Schools

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Frank Grove, secretary of the Alabama Education Association, has announced that all county elementary schools in Cullman county had been forced to close down because of insufficient operating funds, affecting 14,000 school children and 300 teachers.

In closing the schools Mr. Grove said last night Cullman county officials told the teachers that "their loyalty had already been imposed upon to an unwarranted degree" by working for the last 11 months without pay.

City schools were not affected by the move and officials said they would attempt to keep the Cullman County High school at Cullman open at least for the first semester.

Mr. Grove said that unless financial aid was forthcoming immediately that schools in more than 30 counties would close down within the next month or six weeks.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: Among my acquaintances are a few middle-aged maidens who resigned themselves to lonely seclusion and lost contact with the world when domineering parents denied them the right to marry the man they loved.

Tragedies of that kind are rare now, for girls are no longer afraid to think for themselves; but these few cases were enough to convince me that parents can meddle too much, and I resolved long ago to accept your choice without complaint if you waited until you were grown-up to make it.

Of course I have ideas on the subject! I don't want you to marry a man who can't make a living for you. And before you commit yourself, I'd like to know something of the youngster's family history and see a doctor's certificate attesting his physical soundness.

But all other things, however, am willing to trust your good taste and common sense—with one exception.

No matter what means of persuasion I must employ, and no matter how great the hurt to your pride or your heart, I won't let you marry a drunkard.

I'm not referring to the fellows who take an occasional drink. Most of them do that now. It's a risky business for some temperaments, but it isn't proof of rottenness.

I suppose the easiest way to distinguish between the "safe drinker" and the drunkard is to discover whether he drinks in the morning after drinking too much at night.

Some drunkards are charming during their periods of sobriety. Women love them at sight, possibly because they are weaklings and need protection. But when they are drunk, they must pay for every day of happiness with many days of shame, fear and misery.

The wives of all drunkards wear the same look—a look of despair and desperation and helpless shame. Their hearts are always heavy and they never are free of dread.

The woman who marries a drinker usually marries abuse, infidelity and sorrow. Today's girl who looks as if she must pay for every day of happiness with many days of shame, fear and misery.

Keep away from one if you find you are beginning to like him. And remember that any high-strung chap who fools with liquor may be trapped by it after you have learned to love him. Love, DAD.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 30.—Hollywood stars have passed up that unwritten law which says they must be dressed to the nines for all appearances outside the privacy of their own homes.

The famous ones of cineland have gone tramp and they love it. Time was when a tourist lunching in a studio commissary could pick the stars by their chic clothes and soignée grooming. Today a girl who looks as if she just stepped out of a hand-box is no star—she's probably somebody's secretary, or a script clerk or a wardrobe woman.

And the star—well, the star, very comfortably attired in a suit of dark tailored pajamas, her bare feet tied into comely sandals, obvious from the north and on their way for several days, lost their strength from lack of food and fell into ponds, whence they could be fished out only with great difficulty.

They were carried by motor cars to the nearest police stations, where the tired-out wanderers were fed with great care by the police. In some cases, storks, particularly, who brought them plenty of food, swallowed eagerly by the half-starved birds.

chief) is now convinced that Roosevelt is going to be elected, and is skillfully grabbing the opportunity to ride the Post-revolutionary learning advantage that Walker would be the Tammany candidate for mayor, but added:

"The open fight between Governor Roosevelt and Tammany gave republicans a better chance to carry New York state."

The World-Telegram said Joseph V. McKee, who succeeded Walker as mayor, "is likely to run as an independent" candidate for mayor in the event his predecessor is named by the organization.

McKee, a non-Tammany democrat from Bronx county, where Edward J. Flynn, Roosevelt's secretary of state, is leader.

Flynn, who has been with Roosevelt on his western tour, was quoted as saying that his county had been denied its right of one of the judicial nominations.

Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, one of the Roosevelt appointees denied nomination by Tammany, was from Flynn's section of the city.

The Sun said: "The repudiation of Flynn, Roosevelt's personal representative in the city democracy, is Tammany's ultimatum to Mayor McKee and his kind of economy and reform, which has created somewhat of a panic in the city."

The question of an election November 8 still has to be determined by a higher court. McKee will ratify the case to the court of appeals, which is the final tribunal in New York state, in an effort to hold office another "Al" Smith's office it was said the former governor had made no change in his plan to place Lehman's name in nomination, but that he does not at present intend to support Walker for mayor.

Smith, like Walker, is a member of Tammany. Both have their headquarters within the organization. At least one in the past they have been on opposite sides of the bench on inter-organizational matters.

The Sun said that while "it is a well-known fact Smith is opposed to the nomination of Walker, his action in relation to Walker, however, may be influenced in a measure by what happens to Lehman."

Developments which precipitated the bubbling situation were: 1. The appellate division's reversal of a lower court ruling that McKee should hold office for 14 months.

2. Simultaneous republican and democratic judicial conventions at both of which the following candidates were nominated: Aron Steuer, democrat, 33-year-old son of a St. Louis, Mo., close advisor to Tammany Chief Curry.

State Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, republican, chairman of the legislative committee on judiciary, and the Tammany-controlled city government and paved the way for the Walker ouster case.

Justice Richard P. Lyon, renominated after serving a 14-year term on the bench.

3. A democratic judicial convention in the second judicial district, presided over by Judge John R. Vink, Roosevelt appointee, was turned down for nomination.

The refusal of the Bronx organization chairman to sign the call for the citywide mayoralty convention, which was interpreted in some quarters as an indication the democrats from Flynn's section of the city would refuse to attend.

At a conference in the office of Judge Frederick E. Crane, the city clerk, the purpose was decided to submit the mayoralty election issue to the high court Tuesday afternoon.

The anticipation of a final ruling October 8, the democratic convention in New York have been notified of a special convention to be held in Madison Square Garden that night for the purpose of nominating a candidate for mayor.

Mayor McKee, following a brief conference with his attorney, reiterated his belief that the city government is entitled to a new mayor.

"I have been advised on the best legal authority," he said, "that my term extends to January 1, 1934, and until the court of appeals answers that question I am still of that belief."

DEFENSE OF DAVIS A CAGED BIRD.

Jenkins, Says Money Paid To Department To "Re-establish Good Will."

BY WILLIAM R. SPEAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Defense testimony to show Senator James J. Davis had no connection with the Moore organization department, which received $140,000 of the proceeds of two charity balls allegedly gleamed from lotteries, was attacked by the government at an abbreviated session of the senator's trial today.

Joseph A. Jenkins testified under cross-examination there was "never anything wrong" in connection with a deal by which he and Fred W. Jones are said to have taken over the organization department from the senator's director-general of the loyal order, for $600,000 in 1930.

"You just go right ahead and make it go," was what the Pennsylvania senator testified in connection with a deal by which he and Fred W. Jones are said to have taken over the organization department from the senator's director-general of the loyal order, for $600,000 in 1930.

'INDIVIDUAL GIFTS' DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

Lee Potter Named Chairman of Important Division of Chest Work.

Work of recruiting a regiment of workers, whose object will be to canvass the city in quest of individual contributions to the Atlanta Community Chest, was launched Friday with the appointment of Lee Potter as chairman of the individual gifts division of the Chest, and with R. A. Clark and Fred A. Jordan as co-chairmen.

This division of the Chest each year is called upon to perform one of the most difficult tasks of the annual campaign for funds with which to aid the unfortunate and needy during the ensuing 12-month period. It usually numbers between 600 and 1,000 men, and this year Mr. Potter is making an appeal especially to those who have served previously in the individual gifts drive.

"The job of help for the less fortunate, guidance for the young and helpless, must be done if we are to deserve our claim to civilization and humanity," Mr. Potter said Friday. "No man can do it alone, and organizations like the Chest offer the only solution to the problem."

In issuing his announcement of acceptance of the post of chairman of this division of the Chest, Mr. Potter said: "We will undertake to make sure that no man or woman in Atlanta able to give even the smallest amount shall miss the opportunity to give to this great community service fund."

"We shall cover every part of Atlanta and its adjacent territory, and we hope to spread in every block the story of need and of an organization equipped by experience, by sympathy, by courage and resourcefulness, to serve that need."

"This work will be done by 600 men, all of whom will be volunteers. They are men who have learned well the principles, the methods and the value of the Community Chest. They know how last year, with no more money to spend for human welfare than in other years, yet with a tremendous need, it has carried on with patience and efficiency, performing through its 35 societies more than 500,000 helpful services."

"They know that the Chest program designed to cover every human need—not that of bread alone, but of solving problems of discouragement, sickness, legal entanglements, bewilderment, loss of faith, loss of moral standards, helplessness of babyhood and old age—can be solved only thoughtfully, economically, without duplication or waste."

"And knowing these things, they are giving their time and energies to the job of providing funds for another year of such service, all of them men who must work for living, many of them salesmen whose income is derived from commissions. The time they give to the Chest campaign represents an actual loss to them, yet they give it gladly and with enthusiasm, because they know the need which is to be served and the value of the organization which performs the service."

"They give not only their time, with its consequent sacrifice, but they are themselves contributors to the Chest fund. Most of these volunteers enter their own gifts on their records before approaching a single other person."

"The job of help for the less fortunate, guidance for the young and helpless, must be done if we are to deserve our claim to civilization and humanity. No man can do it alone, and organizations like the Chest offer the only solution to the problem."

"It is your Chest, it can do your job of helpfulness better than you can. That is its function in the community."

Total of $5,012.36 Spent by Harrison

Comptroller General William B. Harrison's successful fight for renomination cost him the largest sum spent by any candidate in the recent primary yet to file a statement of expenditures. Harrison's total was $5,012.36.

Of this total, he personally contributed $2,553.36, while Atlanta, Rome, Hartwell, Macon and Savannah friends contributed the rest.

Mr. Harrison's campaign for governor cost him an even $3,500, all but $1,000 of which he contributed. The rest was accredited to "various friends."

Thomas W. Hardwick's campaign cost $3,188.20. The Fulton County Hardwick Club, through J. K. Jordan, contributed $1,250 of this total, while friends over the state gave $2,495.50. Jesse S. Hall's unsuccessful campaign for secretary of state cost $1,308.17.

$8,000 Street Bonds Sold for Good Price

Atlanta Friday received the best price for city bonds in several months when Robinson-Humphrey Company, high bidders, bought a block of $8,000 par value, 4.5 per cent street improvement securities for $8,151.

Premium paid brought the net interest cost to 4.08 per cent. Previous recent sales have carried interest of about 4.20 per cent.

Bidders said that the premium offered Friday would have been better if there had been a larger block for sale or if they had covered a longer term of years.

Irate Irish Socialist Maltreats Royal Mace

Members of the parliament of Northern Ireland stood aghast today while John Beattie, only socialist in the house, picked up the mace, emblem of authority, and threw it across the room, declaring it was "only an emblem of hypocrisy."

Beattie was angered at a ruling of the speaker and had refused to accept a motion regarding unemployment.

CHEST SPIRIT PRAISED BY WALTER STEWART

The Book of Matthew in two short verses expresses the spirit of the Atlanta Community Chest, according to Walter B. Stewart.

Walter B. Stewart, a Fulton county commissioner, who on Friday gave his endorsement to the forthcoming Chest campaign.

"There is something in the broad program of the Community Chest that strikes me as fulfilling the true essence of human service and charity as described in the Book of Matthew—a service designed to meet every need," said Mr. Stewart.

"That Book says, in Chapter, 25, Verses 25 and 26: "For I was hungry, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison and ye came unto me."

"The Chest and its agencies are equipped to serve every need, and their program is dedicated to that end. They deserve support in the campaign soon to start."

Stephenson's Counsel Charges Murder Plot

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—(P)—Attorneys for D. C. Stephenson, former Gov. of Indiana, in an action filed today with the state supreme court, renewed their charges of sensational attempts to prevent their client from obtaining his liberty.

Stephenson is serving a life term for the murder of Miss Maud Oberholser, of Indianapolis.

The attorneys filed a motion asking the supreme court to hold a hearing on October 11 on Stephenson's petition for a writ of error coram nobis. Through this action they hope to show Stephenson was denied a fair trial.

Accompanying today's action was a document in which charges were made that four persons have been murdered in ramifications of a plot to prevent Stephenson from obtaining his liberty and also to prevent his revelation of activities of an alleged liquor, narcotic and vice ring.

IRVING BERLIN, INC., SUED FOR $1,250,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(P)—Suit for $1,250,000 damages was filed in federal court today against Irving Berlin, Inc., and others by the Richmond-Mayer Music Corporation of New York, and the Richmond-Mayer Music Corporation of Chicago, Ltd., who charged violation of Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts.

12 VETERAN FIREMEN PENSIONED BY BOARD

Two Men, Roy Clayton and W. A. White, Are Turned Down by Committee.

A dozen veteran members of the Atlanta fire department, including two assistant chiefs, were pensioned Friday afternoon at a five-hour session of the pension committee.

Two—Roy V. Clayton, a captain, who was held for murder Friday, and W. A. White, a private—were refused pensions because they have not yet served the requisite 25 years and were not eligible to pensions because of injuries sustained in line of duty.

Those pensioned are: Assistant Chiefs A. B. Rogers and J. O. Hall, Captains C. M. Thurman, John Rozetta, J. H. Tolbert and William Anderson, and Privates I. L. Tolbert, B. O. Fitts, J. S. Etheridge, Oscar I. Jacobs, J. S. Jenkins and John S. White.

The entire 14 had been ordered to take pensions by this morning, but failure of the pension board to approve the applications filed by Clayton and White will reopen the cases before the fire board, which had ordered them to retire, it was announced by Alderman James R. Searright, chairman.

Members of the pension committee are Henry B. Kennedy, city treasurer; D. Graham West, city comptroller; Chief John Terrell, of the fire department, and Tom Medlin and Frank McElroy, selected by the fire department as board members.

Clayton is overweight and White underweight, and on these grounds city physicians recommended that they be pensioned. Pension committee members said neither of the causes constituted a legal reason for pensioning the men, under opinions given by City Attorney James L. Mayson.

H. H. ALTMAN HEADS BAPTIST BIBLE CLASS

H. H. Altman, an executive of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, was elected president of the Men's Bible class of the Druid Hills Baptist church. He and the other deputy county superintendent of schools, a customer in the Citizens National bank when the raiders entered. She was the more seriously hurt.

Miss Ruth Whipple, 30, a bank bookkeeper, wounded in the thigh, told how, after the outlaws had dropped them at an abandoned farm shack following a wild 25-mile dash over country roads with one of the women still clinging to a running board, one said: "Take good care of her (meaning Miss Stock), you can get help at a farm somewhere near. And keep her in the shade."

Both were found when occupants of a pursuing car slowed down because of a flat tire and came within gunshot of the women who had been hiding behind the shack. They were hysterical from their experiences and weakened by loss of blood. They cried feebly for help.

Firing on the bandit car even with women exposed from the running boards apparently occurred, officers said, because townspeople recalled that in the first of six bandit raids on North Dakota this month, two women participated.

The women said they were struck by the first blast as the car was leaving the bank. Miss Stock, her left leg broken by a shotgun charge fired from nearby second-story windows, and her body bearing multiple flesh wounds soon was pulled into the car.

Cashier S. H. Murray, in a back room, pressed the burglar alarm as the gunmen entered and ordered a dozen occupants of the bank to hold up their hands. He was slugged with a pistol and dazed.

Gunfire Wounds Two Women Used as Shields by Bandits

WAHPETON, N. D., Sept. 30.—(P)—Shielded by two women hostages, both of whom were wounded, five bandits raced through a gauntlet of gunfire and escaped after looting a local bank of $5,000 today.

The victims emphasized "the courtesy" of the outlaws as they talked from hospital beds tonight, saying their captors repeatedly reminded them that vigilantes' shots caused their wounds.

"They said it was terrible to shoot women," said Miss Doris Stock, 20, deputy county superintendent of schools, a customer in the Citizens National bank when the raiders entered. She was the more seriously hurt.

Miss Ruth Whipple, 30, a bank bookkeeper, wounded in the thigh, told how, after the outlaws had dropped them at an abandoned farm shack following a wild 25-mile dash over country roads with one of the women still clinging to a running board, one said: "Take good care of her (meaning Miss Stock), you can get help at a

Both were found when occupants of a pursuing car slowed down because of a flat tire and came within gunshot of the women who had been hiding behind the shack. They were hysterical from their experiences and weakened by loss of blood. They cried feebly for help.

Firing on the bandit car even with women exposed from the running boards apparently occurred, officers said, because townspeople recalled that in the first of six bandit raids on North Dakota this month, two women participated.

The women said they were struck by the first blast as the car was leaving the bank. Miss Stock, her left leg broken by a shotgun charge fired from nearby second-story windows, and her body bearing multiple flesh wounds soon was pulled into the car.

Cashier S. H. Murray, in a back room, pressed the burglar alarm as the gunmen entered and ordered a dozen occupants of the bank to hold up their hands. He was slugged with a pistol and dazed.

Upturn in Business Is Seen by Chrysler

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(P)—In a statement to stockholders of Chrysler Corporation, Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board, today said there was a "growing feeling of hopefulness" over future business conditions, but that so far automobile buying had not been greatly stimulated.

"The automobile industry as a whole has been passing through a period of exceedingly low volume of production and sales, the normal seasonal dullness being accentuated by the failure of general business and employment to show any substantial evidence of improvement," he said.

"Unquestionably, at this writing (mid-September), there is developing a more warrantably hopeful attitude on the part of the business and financial community and some agricultural sections. Confidence in the country's ability to regain at least a measure of its former activity has begun to return and there is a growing belief that the recuperative forces which inevitably set under way in a business depression will become increasingly effective. But, whatever the tangible results will be, they have not yet appeared in the form of satisfactory volume of automobile purchases."

Chrysler's statement was mailed to stockholders with dividend checks for the third quarter.

MERCER FACES HOWARD TODAY

It is an important contest. Both teams are members of the new Dixie conference and each desires the championship. Howard already has downed one conference foe, Spring Hill, and, too, has defeated Ogtheorpe. It will be the first conference tilt for the Bruins, who opened their schedu-

A crowd of 5,000 is expected for the game. Mercer completed its training today with a light drill in the stadium. Picking drills were on the program. Forward plays were looked over in a dummy scrimmage. The Howard team arrived in Macon just before dusk today. Coaches McQuinn and Eaton rushed the 33 play-into uniform and took them to the stadium for a light drill. Coach Lake Russell, of Mercer, was worried over the loss of Reasor and the attitude of his players. "I'm not hoping anything," he said. "I don't know what to hope. 'I'm afraid we might get licked.'"

Nevertheless the National league champions face a forlorn outlook. They must win four out of five games to take the big title.

If the Cubs' park is filled to its capacity, the crowd will be

A Tribute From Lassiter

IF I WERE YOU

By P. G. Wodehouse

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
Anthony, fifth earl of Droitwich, had just become engaged to Violet Waddington, heiress of Waddington's 87 Soup. The discovery of Tony's secret had first been made by Lord Droitwich's brother, the Hon. Freddie Chalk-Marshall, who had deduced, as much when he saw Anthony kissing Violet in the rose garden of Langley End, the Droitwich country seat in Worcestershire. Wishing to do a good turn, Freddie had sent a wire to Tubby Bridgforth, who had had his annual row with his father and was trying to turn a honest penny as a gossip writer for the London Daily Express. The household at Langley End, which included Sir Herbert and Lady Lydia Bassinger, Anthony's aunt, got the news when the Express telephoned to verify Tony's report of the engagement. Lady Lydia had fully stage-managed the preliminaries. When Violet informed her father, G. G. Waddington, of the 87 Soup, he heaved up, disheveled, tall, slender and beautiful, was described as a fashion plate and usually told her father that Anthony was supplying the title and she the money. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT III.

"Hullo," he said. "All alone."
"Yes," said Violet. "Lady Lydia has gone up to change her dress, and Father's on his way down to the Droitwich Arms."
"To have a spot?"
"No. Just to telephone the papers about the latest fashionable engagement."
Freddie frowned.
"Oh!" he said. "Bit tough on young Tubby. I'm afraid he'll miss his scoop. You haven't met young Tubby, have you?"
"No."
"A good chap, but too prone to old his old gun." Talking of the old boy, I'm trying to sell him a new hair lotion."
"I didn't know you were in the profession, Freddie."
"Just trying to make a bit of the filth. This was some stuff that Tony brought home from London a month or two ago, and it struck me as pretty good. He got it at young Price's barbershop. It's made up from an old recipe of Price's grandfather. It seemed to me that, if I could interest capital, I might be in a position to touch Price for a stiff agent's fee. You never know."
"The Prices are coming down here this afternoon," said Violet.
"Oo dash it!" said Freddie. "Are they? She used to be Tony's nurse."
"I know."
"A ghastly female. And the son's worse. A highly septic little bouncer."
"Well, I don't suppose you'll meet them."

Aunt Het

Freddie, "smack into it. I don't mind."
It was a generous invitation, but before either of the interested parties could avail themselves of it their attention was diverted by an unpleasant noise on the drive outside. A vehicle of some kind was approaching. Freddie, who was nearest the window, looked out. Tony, peering over his shoulder, uttered an exclamation and drew back.
"Oh, dammit!" said Tony.
"Don't say it's callers," said Violet.
"Not for you. It's Ma Price."
"Don't you like her, either?"
"She gives me the heebie-jeebies," said Tony. "She will insist on bursting into tears and kissing me. A dashed, damp, disturbing process, believe me. I can understand anyone crying at the sight of me. I can just understand some eccentric person wanting to kiss me. But the two at the same time—no. It's contradictory."
He drank more tea to fortify himself for the ordeal. These periodic visits of his old nurse were a trial to Lord Droitwich. If he had ever really enjoyed the society of Ma Price, he must, he felt, have been ever pleased as a baby.
"She's brought her son with her, I hear."
Freddie moaned softly.
"Will he kiss you?" asked Violet.
"Certainly not," said Tony.
To kiss a member of the peerage would be foreign to Syd Price's principles. He's a socialist.
"The consignment, I noticed," said

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(P)—Trading in stocks today conformed closely to recent patterns. The market was very dull, but improved enough in late trading to show some earlier moderate losses. Sales totaled 1,142,720 shares, smallest turnover since July 21.

Wheat was heavy. Cotton also sagged until a late and lively covering movement caught up the slack and brought substantial net advances. The coffee market regained its equilibrium. The range of fluctuations in shares was narrow at the worst, few leaders were off more than a point and with the market getting progressively duller on this insignificant up short, apparently decided to retreat. Late improvement was helped by strength in Northern Pacific and Great Northern, preferred.

Net changes were nominal in most so-called pivotal issues. United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Electric, Westinghouse, DuPont, Montgomery Ward, Case, American Express, Baltimore and Ohio were up slightly, while Allied Chemical and American Tobacco were mildly reactionary. The market ended with a net loss in price averages. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite, which closed on September 1, was 107.75, finished today at 107.25, a decline of 0.50 points, which has governed operations since the flush of July-August exuberance passed.

The period saw at least a little life injected into more business, as car loading, power production and steel mill activities showed some improvement. The range of fluctuations in shares was narrow at the worst, few leaders were off more than a point and with the market getting progressively duller on this insignificant up short, apparently decided to retreat. Late improvement was helped by strength in Northern Pacific and Great Northern, preferred.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(P)—Trading in stocks today conformed closely to recent patterns. The market was very dull, but improved enough in late trading to show some earlier moderate losses. Sales totaled 1,142,720 shares, smallest turnover since July 21.

Wheat was heavy. Cotton also sagged until a late and lively covering movement caught up the slack and brought substantial net advances. The coffee market regained its equilibrium. The range of fluctuations in shares was narrow at the worst, few leaders were off more than a point and with the market getting progressively duller on this insignificant up short, apparently decided to retreat. Late improvement was helped by strength in Northern Pacific and Great Northern, preferred.

Net changes were nominal in most so-called pivotal issues. United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Electric, Westinghouse, DuPont, Montgomery Ward, Case, American Express, Baltimore and Ohio were up slightly, while Allied Chemical and American Tobacco were mildly reactionary. The market ended with a net loss in price averages. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite, which closed on September 1, was 107.75, finished today at 107.25, a decline of 0.50 points, which has governed operations since the flush of July-August exuberance passed.

The period saw at least a little life injected into more business, as car loading, power production and steel mill activities showed some improvement. The range of fluctuations in shares was narrow at the worst, few leaders were off more than a point and with the market getting progressively duller on this insignificant up short, apparently decided to retreat. Late improvement was helped by strength in Northern Pacific and Great Northern, preferred.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 90

After four days of recuperating, Tarzan set out to explore this unknown valley and search for his fellow apes. He believed he must be somewhere near their hunting grounds. He had proceeded southward a short distance.

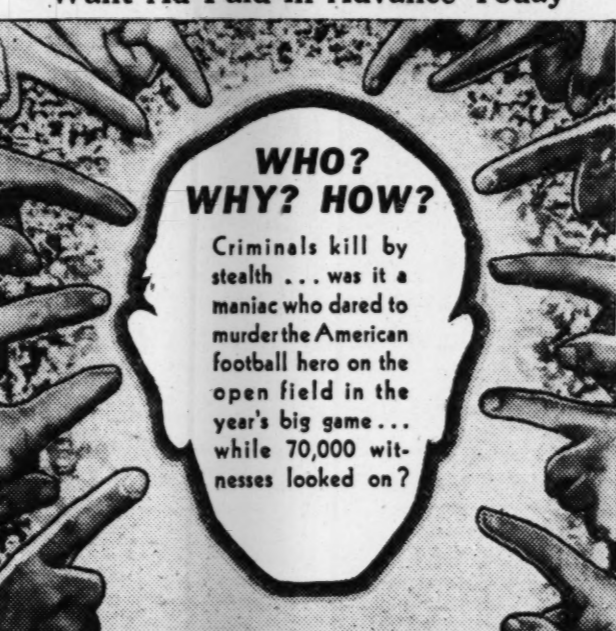

Suddenly his nostrils were assailed by the scent of a man—of Gomangani, the black man. There were many of them and mixed with their scent was another, that of a she Tarmangani! Tarzan reconnoitered, swinging through the trees.

Soon he approached the authors of these disturbing scenes. From the dense foliage of a great tree he watched them pass—a disreputable mob of natives. The ape-man guessed they were deserters from the Red's native regiments.

Probably they had slain their officers, taken to the jungle, and stolen their women from some village. They were hurrying into the impenetrable interior, but Tarzan was most interested at something he saw they had with them.
